

Over 40 years printing and decorating bespoke mugs

About our Mugs

Our designs are screen printed and the transfers applied by hand before being fired in traditional kilns in Scotland. This gives a much better quality and finish than digital printing. The mugs are packed straight off the kiln and despatched to you. Although we can supply mugs that are manufactured in the UK most are bought in from India and China. We are satisfied with the ethical and environmental audit reports of overseas factories.

Specially Commissioned Mugs

Design

Our design studio and in-house print shop have produced a first class service to customers seeking their own designs on our mugs for 40 years. We work from supplied finished artwork at one extreme to the merest suggestion of what your mugs should look like at the other. In between we use whatever you can provide us with: partly finished designs, rough sketches, references such as postcards, photographs, guidebooks, maps etc. - occasionally when appropriate combining these with materials from our own archives. Everything is done to create a distinctive and appealing mug design on one of our mugs.

Design and sampling charges

Prices for any design we do in-house and printed samples will be quoted on sight of artwork. Mock ups are printed free of charge.

Care and use of Mclaggan Smith mugs

Due to Health Regulations, lead has been removed from ceramic glazes and our mugs are now more liable to staining. Mugs should be rinsed shortly after use and any stains should be removed with a weak solution of bleach. Some colours are susceptible to fading with repeated dishwasher use.

Inks

Some colours are hard to match to exact pantones with ceramic inks. We can discuss this with you. Four colour process is possible. A minimum order of 576 mugs is suggested to achieve an economic price.

Timing

Time to delivery is approximately 6-8 weeks from confirmation of order. Depending on circumstances we can usually offer a faster service.
